

IN MEMORY

ANIM 753 Thesis Exploration & Research Alyssa Myers

A two-minute hybrid, animated short film about a woman in her 30s who experiences déjà vu-like visions set in 1930s Hollywood with references to the stylistic movement of Art Nouveau.

- Nostalgia: melancholy emotion when confronted with loss.
- Memory can be viewed as an internalized homecoming to an idealized past.
- In psychoanalysis, this is non-existent and is in pursuit of the ideal image.

Using the characteristic flowing lines and elegant organic forms of Art Nouveau contrasted with a simplistic 3D rendering style, the film, "In Memory," explores the psychological response associated with nostalgia and its longing for an idealized past

- In psychoanalysis, this “past” is non-existent and created in the pursuit of the ideal image.
- Lacan’s Mirror Stage: Belief that children enter a stage in which they begin to identify with their own image.
- The formation of identity is said to be dependent on this image created as a child.
- People spend their lives striving for this early impression of self, and it has the ability to instill a feeling of nostalgia when confronted with it.

Using the characteristic flowing lines and elegant organic forms of Art Nouveau contrasted with a simplistic 3D rendering style, the film, “In Memory,” explores the psychological response associated with nostalgia and its longing for an idealized past

ALPHONSE MUCHA

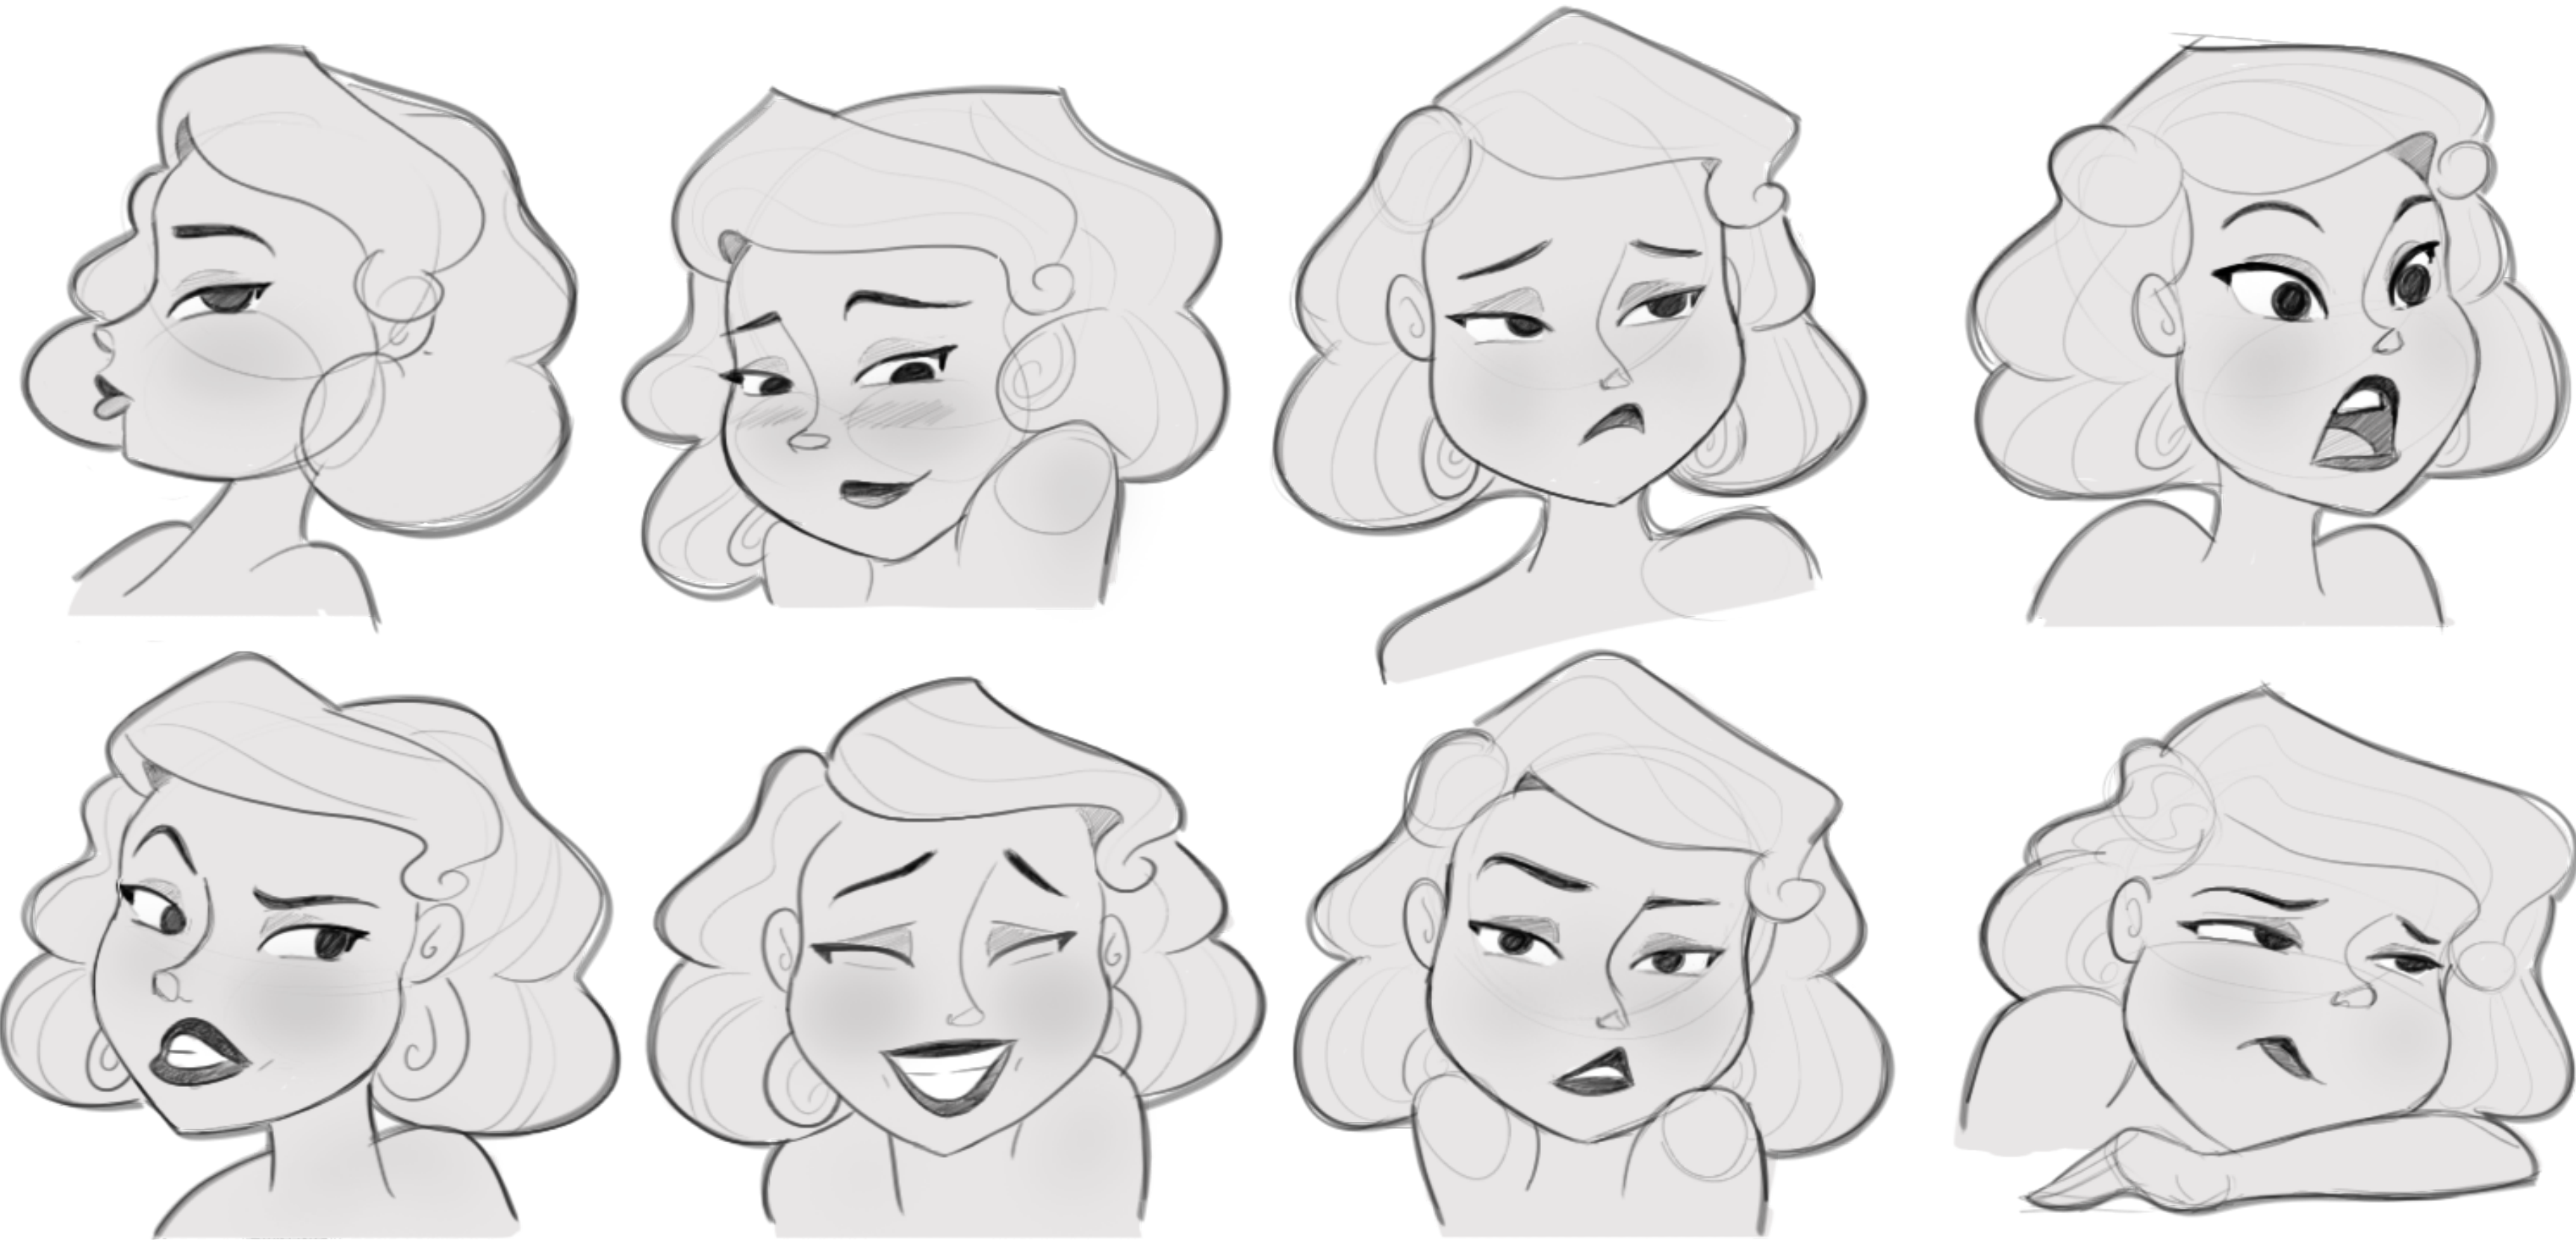

- Initially called the "Mucha Style," and eventually known as Art Nouveau. It's an important predecessor to Modernism. Remembered as a transitional period.
- Categorized by its decorative, intricate designs & organic, curvilinear figures.
- References: Pre-Raphaelites, Celtic manuscripts, Ukiyo-e Japanese prints, and the rococo style.
- Subjects were typically women performing everyday tasks in a more glamorous manner.
